HUMOR IN BRITISH GREETING CARDS

Humor—the friendly British humor as immortalized in Punch—strikes the dominant note in the Christmas cards which embattled Britons exchanged on this, the fourth Christmas of war.

Humor is a traditional asset in our Empire democracy. Balmfathers' "Old Bill" did his bit in building Almond morale by his humorous outlook amidst his grim surroundings in the war-torn France of 1914-18.

Military subjects predominate in current British Christmas cards, often done in lighter vein. A favorite treatment is the use of some familiar wartime phrase—illustrating a situation ridiculously foreign to the original expression.

One card shows a party of "Tommies" disporting on skates, only to be caught in an air-raid. The caption reads: "Danger—Men Working Overhead." A featherless rooster surveys his flock. Says a hen, "He's been blinded, my dears." A dozen soldiers are depicted consuming beer and cheese. "Demobilization Squad" is the descriptive explanation. A soldier arrives home on leave, to be surrounded by wife, son and dog. "Encirclement" explains the caption.

Getting a laugh out of the clothing rations is another British Christmas card. It shows a girl dressed in an apron, a "bras" and "tin hat." She is talking to a smartly dressed friend. The "laugh" line reads: "Sweetie-Pie: I haven't a coupon left."

Train traffic through Blairmore during the past four weeks has averaged at least two trains an hour, including passenger trains. We have noticed four trains, two east and two west, in one hour one afternoon. Tuesday afternoon's eastbound train was made up of three passenger coaches, one diner and eleven mail and express cars.

HILLCREST HAPPENINGS

Funeral service for the late Mrs. Jane Sloan Douglas was held at the residence, Rev. W. H. Irwin officiating. Deceased was born in Orkirk, Lancashire, Scotland, on September 9th, 1878, and came to Canada on May 6th, 1921, at the age of 43, accompanied by her husband, John Douglas, and resided in Hillcrest for the past twenty-one and a half years. She is survived by her husband; five sons, Robert in Scotland, John in Detroit, Harry in Coleman, Matthew in Hillcrest, and Sam with the R.C.A.F. in Calgary; seventeen grandchildren, one great-grandchild; also a sister in Lethbridge. The residence was filled with relatives and friends for the last rites. Floral tributes were many and beautiful. The remains were laid to rest in the Hillcrest cemetery. A. E. Ferguson, of the Crows' Nest Farm Home, was in charge of arrangements.

Misses Lily Chan and Cora Bosetti, who have been attending Garbett Business College in Calgary, are spending the Christmas and New Year holidays with their parents here.

Mr. Hollingshead and Lawrence Fisher, who are attending the Alberta University, are spending the holidays at their homes here.

Bill Makin, of the R.C.A., is home on a visit with his family.

Ruth McDade of Lethbridge, is a visitor with her parents here, Mr. and Mrs. John McDade.

A.M.A. URGES LOWER MOTOR LICENSE FEES

Reduction in the cost of motor licenses in Alberta has been urged by the Alberta Motor Association. In view of the restrictions on fuel supply brought about by the federal rationing regulations, and also the fact that the province is not in a position to keep highways up to past standards, due to wartime priorities, it was felt that lower license fees should be imposed on motorists for the duration of the war. The province has a free hand to make such a license reduction, it was stated. At the same time, the province, under the tax transfer agreement with the Dominion, is guaranteed some $3,200,000 annual revenue from the gasoline tax, on the basis of 1940 collections. A delegation from the Motor Association will urge upon the government a reduction in motor fees for 1943.

PREMIER'S CHRISTMAS MESSAGE TO WEEKLY EDITORS AND READERS

In this, the fourth Christmas of the war, there is an undertone of sorrow to the songs of joyousness which are traditional of the season. Friends and neighbors on all sides are absent from their homes, some of them never to return, and there is naturally a note of sadness in the greeting: "Peace on earth and goodwill to men."

Nevertheless, the courage of our people stands out like a beacon through the gathering darkness of times. In field, in factory and from abroad, Miss Moon outlined the same spirit of loyalty to and of objects of the C.G.I.T. organization and sacrifice is manifest. We can the Canadian Girls in Training movement was founded upon the spirit of faith in our cause; with faith in ourselves and in the priceless heritage of freedom which we now defend.

With such a spirit, we cannot help but emerge victorious from the dangers of the moment, and we cannot too frequently tell one another that with the help of all that is good and holy, we will come out of the crucible of war purified, and refined—a shining people of new faith and purpose.

Through the columns of the weekly press, I wish to commend the people of Alberta for their unbounded loyalty and devotion through the war years. To all I say: Greetings and good wishes. May your Christmas be joyous and the New Year victorious.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICE AT CENTRAL UNITED CHURCH

At Central United church on Sunday evening, a most colorful Christmas Vesper service with candlelighting was held, directed by the leaders of the two C.G.I.T. groups, Mrs. Fred Smith and Miss Dorothy Moore.

Throughout the service was very impressive, and was enjoyed by a congregation that taxed the capacity of the church, to its fullest.

The Christmas story was given in word and song, with an appropriate violin solo by Elsie Arrol. In a short time, in field, in factory and from abroad, Miss Moon outlined the same spirit of loyalty to and of objects of the C.G.I.T. organization and sacrifice is manifest. ## COWLEY HAPPENINGS *

George Porter was a recent visitor to Cowley.

Lloyd Morrison arrived home on Tuesday from Edmonton, where he has been attending the fall term at the university.

Mrs. Willard Dwyer has returned from a few months' visit with her husband, who is stationed at Angus military camp in Ontario.

Mrs. Harry Mundie and small grandson, Donald, returned Monday from a two weeks' visit with relatives in Vancouver.

Miss Nellie McWilliam and her mother left by bus on Wednesday to spend the Yuletide with Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Tustian in Fernie.

Alfred Dionne has returned from Vancouver, where he went to enlist in the army, but on medical examination was found to be physically unfit, having defective hearing.

Over three hundred persons packed the hall here on Tuesday night when one of the best Christmas concerts ever held here was staged by the pupils of the Cowley school, who had been thoroughly and painstakingly drilled by their teachers, Miss McWilliam and Mrs. Stella Ercol. Prizes for tombola were won by Alex. Vashock, sack of flour; Jimmie Perry, sack of flour; Ed. Murphy, box of apples; Isobel Papp, box of candy; Mrs. Russell Smyth, box of fancy biscuits; Mrs. F. A. Tustian, $2.00 cash, and Larry Washburn, $1.00 cash. After Santa Claus left by airplane for parts unknown, the hall was cleared, when a lively dance took place to music supplied by Alvin Murphy and Kenneth Martin.

Mail robberies during this Yuletide season are reported quite common.

Celin MacDonald, now with the Army, is expected to spend the Yuletide with his family and parents here.

Dave Dobek, formerly of the Coleman Canadians, is a big scorer with the Calgary Buffaloes' hockey team.

David Ferguson, who is attending university, is spending the Yuletide here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Ferguson.

They're dying down in Nova Scotia at such youthful ages of 105 to 115. Simply stayed over to see what the world was coming to.

Up north of Red Deer they have yet to navigate over from two or three feet of snow, while we down here cannot find an inch of it. But, touch wood!

"Cinnamon" Barr, well known Belleville old timer, lies seriously ill in hospital at Macleod. An old friend of his, Mr. Sullivan, of Creston, has been down to visit him.

Fred Gavelin has returned from an extended health visit to the Pacific coast.

Of the 547 ration boards being organized in Canada, 37 are to be in operation in Alberta.

W. T. Young, of the South Fork district, was a business visitor to Blairmore on Tuesday afternoon.

Historians may explain Tobruk, but the Eighth Army has done better. It avenged it—Winston Churchill!

Boys, be careful! There are to be further restrictions. Cups, teapots, jugs and all other mugs are to be minus handles.

Remember the Columbus Club's annual holiday dance to be held in the Columbus hall this Friday night. All ways a good time.

Following announcement of bans on such things as milk, there was a run on the vendors during the week almost parred with that on the post office, and carried fully as many smiles.

Announcement has been made by Sergt. M. W. Cooke that the 93rd Field Battery, R.C.A., has been disbanded—reason given that the Pass unit is too far distant from the Macleod headquarters.

Many of the local district boys in army uniform are home with their parents, families and friends for the Yuletide. The locals include Norman Bonneau and Jimmy Gray, both with the Veterans' Guard.

Several youngsters in play near the Coleman Hardware store on Sunday evening had the misfortune to break a plate-glass window. They had sufficient sportsmanship, however, to immediately report their ill-luck to Mr. Duthie.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice W. Cooke, of Coleman, announce the engagement of their second daughter, Dorothy Yvonne, to Lance Corporal Ralph Lottelle, of Sylvan Lake, the marriage to take place towards the end of this month.

A wholesale grocer at Chicoutimi was found guilty on nine charges of selling groceries at prices over the maximum levels, and paid fines totaling $1,500 and costs. Another in Jonquiere was fined $1,600 on eight counts.

Mr. and Mrs. Steivenard celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding on December 24th, when they plan to rehearse all that happened on that eventful day. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Steivenard many more years of health and wedded bliss.

We thank the Blairmore Hardware Company for one of their most attractive calendars, depicting hunting and fishing scenes; also the Royal Bank of Canada and others, all of service to us. None of them are mimeographed, but something worth while.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Anderson, of Vancouver, announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Eleanor Marie, to Mr. Gordon Milley, of Vancouver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Milley, of Coleman, the marriage to take place towards the end of this month.

Among the first Christmas greeting cards received this season was one from the Charlie Clarks, of High River. Apparently a gang of that race operate a printed newspaper and general printing office in that would-be second city; but, anyway, we sent 'em all greeting cards in return.

Word has been received this week of the death of Mr. Sydney Sargent, junior, which occurred at the Marine Hospital at Oakland, California. Sydney was the only son of Mr. Sydney Sargent, former Blairmore resident and business man, now residing at 54 Thetford Road, New Malden, Surrey, England. Sydney, junior, visited Blairmore about three or four years ago.

The War In 1942

AT THE CLOSE of the year 1942 we may look back with pride on the part that Canada has played in the momentous events of the past twelve months. During this period Canadian troops fought Germans for the first time, and their troops fought at Dieppe, their administration and confidence throughout the United Nations. Canadian sailors and airmen have fought in many parts of the world in the past year and they have taken an important part in the growing allied offensive. At home, production of war materials has reached heights which were undreamed of at the beginning of the war. The output of war materials is today three times what it was a year ago, and Canada is now the third largest arsenal among the United Nations. At the outbreak of the war Canada had the capacity for making only a small amount of military supplies, but now what we produce maintains not only the hundreds of thousands of men in our own armed forces, but is sufficient to allow large quantities to be sent to our Allies. Over half the machinery in Canada today is being used to produce war materials, and we may be justly proud of this ever-increasing flow of supplies coming from our war industries.

Inflation Has Been Avoided The average Canadian citizen doubtless feels that considering that we are in the midst of the greatest struggle in history, we in Canada have had much to be thankful during the past year. Inflation is one of the greatest evils of war, and this has been successfully avoided here, through the control of prices and salaries. This system of control has brought about some hardships and inconvenience but these have been small. Indeed, compared to the consequences of inflation. Taxes are heavy, but taxes this year have covered one-half of the cost of the war effort on the west coast. The other half has been covered by war savings. If we can continue in this way, there will be a staggering war debt to encumber us in the post-war period. At the beginning of hostilities, Canada's financial position was sound, and it has continued so in spite of the strain placed upon it by the financing of the war. Of the eight billion dollars, which is now Canada's national income, much was made available to the government in war savings in 1942. In this as in every other phase of the war effort, we must maintain and if possible increase our contribution.

It is possible that when the history of this war is written it will be said that the year 1942 marked the turning of the tide of battle in favor of the United Nations. During this year the full strength of Allied production has been reached, and for the first time it has been possible for them to send fully equipped forces into the field, and to keep them supplied. The Allied air forces have carried out devastating attacks on enemy countries, and we have seen our air forces grow day by day in numbers and in strength. At sea, our losses have decreased somewhat, and our rate of replacement of ships has increased enormously. Thus the United Nations have been able to maintain supply routes with increasing success. We have seen General Rommel's army put to flight in Libya; the Allied successes in West Africa and in the Pacific. Russia and China have held firm and they remain powerful and determined Allies. We have had reverses and Mr. Churchill has told us that there will be others. But there are definite signs that the past year has marked a change for the better in the situation of the United Nations, and we can look with hope and confidence to the beginning of a new year.

AT WAR FOR 28 YEARS FACTORY PAPERS The Isle of Man has been at war with Germany for 28 years! The Manx Government declared war in 1914—but were never invited to Versailles, and therefore did not sign the peace. So no new declaration was needed in 1939!

FACTORY PAPERS

Factory Papers are becoming more and more numerous, and it seems likely that they have come to stay—a war idea to help workers with their personal problems. Scores of Lancashire cotton mills and engineering works have now their own pads.

NEWS of your Army

From Headquarters of Public Relations Army

(By Lieut. Seth Halton)

Officers and men from every fighting branch of the Canadian Army are living and training together as members of the First Canadian Parachute Battalion, headquartered at Fort Benning, Ga., according to Lieut.-Col. G. F. P. Bradbrooke of Regina and Saskatoon, who commands the unit. The Canadians went around a small nucleus who went to Benning to train at the Parachute School last July.

Other Canadian units, suggested by the Canadian Association of Western Air Command, have been formed, and the news assignment, covering activities of Western Air Command, has been rounded out 20 years of service. His zest for life, and joyful manner made him friends in every province of the Dominion, from prime ministers to porters. His leases have covered events of national importance, and leading personalities of Canada for 15 years.

Art Publication

Government Publishes Book On English, The Robber Prince.

Among the emergency rations carried in a German rubber dinghy recently was a packet of cigarettes. Inside were some coupons, and an intimation that if the smoker saved 50 double coupons in numerical sequence, and repeated it with four different series, he could, for the price of one pack receive a copy of an "Art Publication" entitled "English—The Robber Prince."

The wrecked German airmen was assured: "This highly vivid work gives us a penetrating insight into the questionable methods which England has employed since time immemorial to establish and expand its position as a world power." The front 125 historical pictorial documents—most of them published for the first time—revel with all clarity the true character of our "cousins across the channel."

If this subject makes no appeal, there are alternative offers. The smoker can apply for an art album dealing with architecture, or if that proves distasteful, he must fall back on a pamphlet dealing with the life of the Fuehrer! — Argus, Brighton, England.

CANNOT BE DONE

The best medical opinion is that while it's possible to fall asleep with one's eyes open, a normal person could not continue in that condition and there's no evidence that any one could train himself to sleep with his eyes open.

The period of fine weather in the autumn, known in Canada as "Indian summer" is called St. Martin's summer in England.

Bank Executives Support Wartime Taxes, Prices and Trade Controls

Huntry R. Drummond, Bank of Montreal President, Suggests That High Taxation and Controls Are Justified for Duration Only—Sees Need for Freedom of Enterprise With Return of Peace

G. W. Spinney, General Manager, Reviews Bank's 125th Year—Discusses War Finance—Says Government Financing Through Chartered Banks Being Kept Within Reasonable and Manageable Proportions

Efforts by the Government to prevent the effects of inflation as experienced in the aftermath of the war are continuing, and the price controls and pay-as-we-go taxation—were commanded by Huntry R. Drummond, President of the Bank of Montreal, at that institution's 125th annual meeting. Such efforts, he said, "merited the support of every thinking Canadian". At the same time he urged that the price controls and regulations be removed with all possible speed after the war so that private enterprise might have the opportunity to convert war factories to the production of peace goods.

Wide expansion in industrial production, particularly in the aircraft and housing, under government direction and control, with the government guaranteeing the overhead and providing the market for the products, he declared that "these conditions will not and cannot obtain after the war."

Describing the income tax, company and individual contributions to the war effort of the Allies as "the Nation's", and covering practically every individual, the president said that nevertheless, the cheerful acceptance of the tax by the Canadian public had been notable and was an encouraging sign for the future. In this connection, however, he pointed out that "we have gone a long way toward establishing everything but liberty itself."

Let not us forget that on the shoulders of free citizens that to make democracy—freedom of conscience, freedom of speech, freedom of labour and equality before the law".

Bank Earnings Restricted During the year the bank's assets and deposits reached new high levels—the average assets were $1,061 million compared with $1,032 million in the preceding year, while deposits—most of which were from individuals—amounted to $1,064,000,000. Earnings showed a small increase, but taxes at $2,540,000 were considerably higher, because of the increased rate of taxation and the reduction in 70% of pre-war standard profits. The incidence of this increase was felt only in the last four months of the year, and the rate of expansion and growth that took place in the coming year would be sharply higher.

Dealing further with the bank's position, he said that this year even a larger proportion of assets was represented by short-term and immediately realizable investments which placed the bank in a stronger position than ever before. In view of the earning power of all banks had been reduced by such investments, higher taxes and the government policy of keeping interest rates low—"we are comment."

At the same time he gave credit to the banks in supporting to the come. In their last month they get the rudiments of armoured corps training centre for an intensive course in tank warfare—three months of this then it's Hitler, here we come!

OFAIS At National Defence headquarters name the following poem as one of the soldiers' greatest laments. It was written by a Canadian overseas:

I didn't think that you'd forget.

The poor old Queen of Battle the infantry, has been raised to a new official status with announcement by the Hon. J. L. Ralston, Minister of National Defence, that a Corps of Infantry is being formed for the Canadian Army. In practice, it was explained by Major-General Letson, the Adjutant-General, regimental titles and integrity will be maintained, but officers will be accepted into the Corps and sent to the unit of their choice if circumstances permit. Officers and men will thus receive more uniform training and a Corps spirit will grow.

So there really is a butter shortage! The figures recently released by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics clear up all those rumours about its being a phoney shortage, due to panic buying and wicked wholesalers waiting for the price to rise. The cold facts are that Canadians are eating more butter than they did last year, so that although production has been increased to a high level, we have now less meat in storage than we had this time last year.

That means that all of us have got to eat less butter, if we are to avoid the extremely cumbersome and expensive alternative of rationing. This is not the nutritional disaster you may suppose. The fact is that there is a much cheaper way of getting the two chief food essentials supplied by butter. These essentials are fat in Vitamin A, a great deal more people would be a lot better off if they ate less fat, so that's no loss. Those who need this high energy food can get it by eating the fat part of meats, and of course meat contains a certain amount of fat throughout. Were butter to be only source of Vitamin A, we would be in a bad position. We would be really serious for too little of this important vitamin in our diet leads to night blindness, lessened resistance to infection—hence more coughs and colds—and in extreme cases to a serious eye disease, xerophthalmia. Butter is only a fair source of A. Cheaper and better sources of Vitamin A are green leafy vegetables, whole grain cereal, whole grain bread, carrots, sweet potatoes, squash. And you will be glad to know, Vitamin A is not a temperamental vitamin and survives even expert cooking very nicely.

Other excellent food sources are liver and cod-liver oil. These cannot be beaten when it comes to butter, but if you eat liver occasionally and take cod-liver oil regularly, you're getting more Vitamin A than even excessive use of butter could supply.

One thing to remember—if your chief source of A is to be the green leafy yellow vegetables, don't use mineral oil either medicinally or as a salid dressing. Mineral oil is fat soluble. Mineral oil will dissolve carotene out of vegetables eaten and since mineral oil itself is not assimilated the carotene also will be lost. Our last word—children need more fat. A special request to the Western Division, Health League of Canada, 111 Avenue Road, Toronto, will bring you a free copy of an up-to-date and authoritative Vitamin Chart.

Insurance For War Risk Shown By Distribution

Ottawa.—War risk insurance purchased up to the end of October totalled $1,260,000,000 and was bought mainly in British Columbia, Ontario and Quebec. Finance Minister Riley Smith said.

The returns indicated that home-owners have not been as interested in war risk insurance as industrial and commercial property owners, the minister said.

This is possibly because of the free compensation provisions of the War Risk Insurance Act providing for free compensation up to $3,000 to the owner of a home damaged by war damage, if the owner occupies the home.

"What is apparently not realized by many home-owners is that $3,000 is the maximum amount payable under the free compensation provisions, and that it may be considerably reduced by reason of the owner's equity being less than $3,000. The owner-occupier of a dwelling-house cannot receive compensation greater than his equity."

The distribution of insurance sales was approximately as follows: British Columbia, 26 per cent, prairie provinces six, Ontario 28, Quebec 32, Maritimes 10.

From a survey of Canadian cities, it was found that approximately 40 per cent of homes are occupied by the owners and 60 per cent are occupied by tenants. With regard to the 60 per cent occupied by tenants, the landlords are not covered by the free compensation provisions of the act. With regard to the 40 per cent owner-occupied, approximately 40 per cent have mortgages, many of which reduce the owner's equity to less than $3,000. The survey showed that the average value of a dwelling house in a Canadian city is $3,500, and that the average mortgage on such dwelling house is $1,700.

Peace Proposals Announced By Herbert Hoover

Chicago.—Herbert Hoover, former president of the United States, proposed that postwar peace agreements be divided into two stages—a preliminary peace, followed by a period devoted to solving problems.

"The essence of my proposal is that we have no armistice, no general peace conference, such as Versailles, but that we set the peace-making in two stages," he explained.

"The first to be an instant 'conditional peace' that will turn the world toward political, economic and spiritual recovery without the delays of last time. And then that the world should take time to cool off and work out one by one and separately the solutions for lasting peace."

He suggested separate problems be negotiated by separate commissions representing the dominant nations as a prelude to action by their governments.

He also stated, in an address prepared for delivery before the Executive club, that the United States must co-operate with its allies in finding a lasting peace and making it secure.

To accomplish the purposes he outlined, Hoover said, the United Nations should agree in advance to the terms of a conditional peace and a subsequent program, and should impose and enforce the conditional peace.

He added that the declaration of conditional peace should embrace:

1. Total disarmament of the enemy.

2. Designation of provisional boundaries of nations.

3. Machinery for repatriation of prisoners and civilians driven from their homes.

4. Removal of economic blockade the instant the enemy has handed over his arms.

5. Immediate organization to relieve famine, combat pestilence and aid in reconstruction.

"It is a practical fact all of these separate questions will need at the start to be dealt with by separate commissions as parts of the conditional peace." After each of the problems has been separately examined, reported or negotiated, then the principal governments should act.

He stated the conclusions of the commissions should be "open to expression of public opinion" and declared "thus must be a people's peace."

RESCUE AT SEA

Survivor Tells Of Good Work Of Canadian Corvettes

New York.—The crew of a Canadian corvette which rescued seven men of a tanker in mid-Atlantic were men "of stout heart and iron will," Third Officer Robert D. May of Palma, Calif., said as he told of a perilous rescue in high seas. Fifty-two men were lost in the torpedoing.

"The Canadian corvettes went plowing through seas which ran from 30 to 40 feet high—seas which threatened to engulf the tanker—in search of the submerged U-boats," May said.

"By the light of the flares, the Canadian corvettes, and in particular the one which rescued us, weaved their way in and out among the debris strewing the sea, throwing life belts, life jackets and heaving lines to men they saw swimming in the water."

"Whoever was steering the rescue ship was a master helmsman and men on deck perched precariously on rails while they threw life-saving gear to seamen struggling in the tremendous seas."

"Four times the corvette got lines fast to the lifeboat in which we and five other men were trying to row to safety. Each time the lines carried away like snapping thread. When a mountainous sea hurled us at under the counter of the corvette, prompt action in halting the screws of the Canadian vessel saved us from destruction."

SONG CAROLS

London.—The King and Queen sang carols with the servants at a Christmas tree party at Buckingham Palace. All present brought gifts for distribution among the armed forces.

WORKERS FOR GERMANY

London.—Recent news agency reported a Vichy broadcast said that 205,000 French workers have been sent to Germany.

AGILE CHURCHILL

TRUANT IS HOME

During Exploits Of British Submarines In Two Years' Hunting

London.—The submarine Truant is back home after two and a half years of hunting in which she was credited with sinking or damaging more than 20 Axis ships and traveling more than 80,000 miles in the Mediterranean, the Indian ocean and Java sea.

Among her exploits were a surface attack on an enemy harbor because it was too shallow to enter submerged, getting stuck on the bottom while many destroyers came overhead, sinking two out of three ships in a Japanese convoy and running a gauntlet of Japanese destroyers in her successful break from the East Indies.

Her commanding officer is Lt.-Cmdr. H. A. V. Haggard, D.S.O., D.S.C., son of Admiral Sir Vernon Haggard and nephew of the late Rider Haggard, novelist.

YUGOSLAVIA FIGHTS

Are Pinning Down Seven German Divisions

London.—The Yugoslav government said General Mihalovic still is in the centre of resistance to the Axis in Yugoslavia and that two additional German divisions recently had to be rushed through a 240-mile stretch of the Sava river valley from Zagreb to Belgrade to cope with this resistance. Mihalovic's troops now are pinning down seven German divisions "which during November carried out systematic persecution of his supporters."

"In the village Jajinci near Belgrade 1,000 Serbs were killed," it said.

The statement was issued as a denial of reports that Mihalovic has been supplanted and that guerrillas in fighting the Axis, are ignoring him.

PLAN INCREASE

Britain And United States Have Big Shipbuilding Program

London.—Capt. Oliver Lyttelton, production minister, told the House of Commons the combined British and U.S. shipbuilding program for 1944 will substantially exceed 14,000,000 gross registered tons.

He said he is in full accord with U.S. authorities with whom he conferred on his recent trip to Washington but he was unable to give the details of the over-all program.

The aid expected from U.S. he said "will enable us to achieve an 'over-ride' increase of as much as 'one-third' in the war effort. It would have been otherwise unobtainable, he said.

Lyttelton said he had received assurances U.S. will fill all Britain's requests for shipping raw materials, munitions, aircraft and imports in port program.

SECRET ARSENAL

Produces Thousands Of Tons Of War Material Every Week

London.—Britain has a second "Woolwich Arsenal" built "somewhere in the north" on land where grain was harvested a few months ago.

Operating over eight miles of roads and 12 miles of rail track, thousands of tons of war material are handled weekly.

The brigadier in command has watched the depot grow from a small wooden hut in the middle of a wilderness to a self-contained township handling 10,000 truckloads of war supplies as a monthly routine, with rows of homes, churches, a hospital, theatre and shops.

Christmas 1942

CHRISTMAS 1942 is not very different from the first Christmas, but this year our world is larger, has more scientific facilities giving greater scope and variety in the arts and customs. Today we have more billions of thousands of innocents, especially little children, and lying unheard of before. One year two thousand years ago all the baby boys were killed by order of the king. That time also saw the mass murder of 2,000 Jewish youths who were identified as the leaders of the Roman aggression. God's power was apparent in those days. One master stroke would have freed His people. An earthquake, perhaps, to swallow up the cruel conquerors or a pestilence to strike the dead—or an army of Hosts to vanquish them. Did God make a mistake? The message was urgent and He sent a New Born Babe. Looking at it from a distance of two thousand years we can see that God was right. He might have vented His wrath on thousands of Roman tyrants and relieved the pressure for a while. But the seeds of cruelty and hatred would still have been around and would soon have born a fresh crop of misery.

The third and last hinge that first Christmas was the coming of the light which gives man a chance to beat the evil that is in him. It brought to earth in human form a revelation of a power greater than man's own, a simple Man Who lived vicariously because of that power, and Whose strength was exercised in love. He came not only to teach us the way to salvation, but also to bring us the love of God. He fought every inch of the way against the things that might have absorbed His life. It was a daily battle against the forces that would have dragged Him down and squelched out of Him the light He meant to give the world. He is known to have radiance and with a warmth and personality that has not since been equalled. He taught us what it really means to live.

So let's celebrate Christmas. Let's enjoy to the full the traditional joys of family, friends and good things we are privileged to have. Because we need light and laughter. But let those things be only as the wrapping to the real package underneath. Underneath let there be a dead-easy attitude about our life, and another the willingness to be the first Christians. Let us do right and wrong to the place where in us fear is conquered, greed and self are out. Then we shall be free to build in our homes, in our squadron or in our business a spirit of unity for the greatest effort. And build our own nation which radiates with a warmth and personality that has not since been equalled. He taught us what it really means to live.

EXPORT PERMIT

Must Be Obtained Before Shipping Any Kind Of Poultry

Ottawa.—Exports of poultry of all kinds, alive or dead, require an export permit, the trade and commerce department announced. The permits must be obtained before shipment. The order covers chickens, turkeys, ducks, geese and other domestic fowls.

"While purebred stock for breeding or show purposes will also require an export permit, such permits will be granted freely upon proof by the applicant that the birds are being exported for that purpose," the department said.

No export permit is required for small casual shipments of $5 and under in value.

WAR CRIMES

London.—Foreign Secretary Eden told the House of Commons essential discussions are proceeding with the Allied Dominion governments with the view of setting up a commission for investigation of the war crimes of Axis nationals.

Canadian Women's Army Corps Arrive In Great Britain

The first contingent of the Canadian Women's Army Corps have arrived in Britain. They are nicknamed "Quacks", and their uniform is similar to the British A.T.S., with a variation in hats. Photo shows the unit in London getting first impressions of the city from Trafalgar Square.

Air Routes Of Empire Are To Be Safeguarded

London.—Britain and the United States have agreed that after the war "all bets will be off" on Empire air routes which American planes now are permitted to fly for military purposes, Capt. Harold H. Balfour, undersecretary of state for air, told the House of Commons.

Balfour made the statement in giving commons assurance that the British government is considering "bold measures" to assure Britain's post-war place in the air transport systems of the world and prevent the wrecking of the nation's aircraft industry which employs more than 1,000,000 people.

Balfour said "we are determined to have our place in the air transport system of the world for the British Commonwealth of nations to link up our interests with those of other nations."

"Unless we safeguard the position now either we shall have to concentrate closing down a large part of the aircraft industry employing more than 1,000,000 workers and hope the industrial labor market will be able to absorb them or alternatively we shall have to continue building bombers and fighters in excess of our post-war requirements."

Members cheered when Balfour said the government will inform Parliament as soon as possible on recommended steps "to found a policy of postwar civil aviation which will be worthy of our people."

He said the air ministry is working on an adaption of radio to peacetime use and in conjunction with the ministry of aircraft production on a broad design of requirements.

His declaration was prompted by a proposal by Robert Perkins, Conservative, that Britain and the United States hold a conference to settle spheres of air influence for the future.

Other members supported Perkins, who said he is alarmed by the fact that Prime Minister Churchill had been up to Russia, Ambassador Halifax, Minister of War and Minister of State for Air, and Christian Smuts to South Africa by an "inexperienced" non-Briton.

Presumably he referred to Pilot William Van Der Kloot, captain of the four-motor Liberator bomber which took Churchill to Russia.

British Paper Has Praise For Canadian Army

London.—Hannan Swaffer, dean of Fleet Street journalists, on the third anniversary of the arrival of the first Canadian contingent in Britain, devoted his entire column in the Daily Herald to the present Canadian Army which he called "probably the finest fighting force in the world."

Recalling occasions earlier in the war when orders for action were countermanded at the last moment, the columnist described the Canadian Army's record as "a story of disappointment and frustrated hopes" until the Dieppe raid. "And Dieppe," he said, "because of its losses, was no occasion for rejoicing."

Swaffer said Britain would be grateful to the Canadians for their leadership of British coast after Dunkirk, adding "The world to the Canadians—unknown to the British people—that we relied. They did a long, monotonous job of keeping constant watch."

The columnist praised Lt.-Gen. A. G. McNaughton, commander of the Canadian overseas army, as a "superb soldier . . . a really magnificent military officer."

"The intensity of McNaughton's training is called terrific," he wrote, and its result has been the creation among the Canadians of an "offensive spirit not excelled by any battalion that has been in actual warfare."

"But meanwhile," he said, "Canada asks: What is holding our army in Britain? Is it to abide by the original plan that they be used on the continent? Is it government policy not to break up the formation of a complete Canadian army? Is it McNaughton's own policy or is it the fortune of war?"

"Whatever the answer is, we can rest assured that Canadian troops, with us are at least worthy of those who landed in France 27 years ago. . . . Their sons are equally tough and infinitely better equipped."

CHRISTMAS WEEK
OFFERS CHANCE TO PREDICT WEATHER

Weather prognosticators have found means of forecasting most of the coming year's weather by cooking an eye at the sky during Christmas week. You may not believe them, but here are a few of the various (and conflicting) beliefs about Christmas weather:

If the sun shines through the apple tree on Christmas Day, there will be a good crop the following year.

Ice will bear a man before Christmas; it will not bear a mouse afterward.

Thunder and lightning Christmas week means much snow in the winter.

Wat causes more damage than frost before than after Christmas.

It snows Christmas night, the hop crop will be good next year.

At Christmas meadows green, at Easter covered with frost.

If winds Christmas Day, trees will bring much fruit.

Christmas wet gives empty granary and barrel.

A green Christmas makes a fat graveyard.

A warm Christmas, a cold Easter. A green Christmas, a white Easter.

Brita has decided to add meat to powdered foods.

Mrs. H. Levesque and children, of Pincher Creek, are visiting friends and relatives in town.

There's a ceiling on K.C.'s in Ontario—no more of them until the war is over. Blairstown has no Casey's.

The old U.S. battleship Oregon is being scrapped to provide material for a more modern mistress of the seas—at least 45,000 tons as against 10,500 tons.

Word was received by Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Duncan, of Bellevue, on Monday of this week, that their son M104263 William J. Duncan, A-9 C.A.C. (A) T.C., of D. &amp; M. Wing, Hut T-72-C, Camp Borden, Ontario, had sustained a fractured wrist accidentally.

AN ATTRACTIVE
RAILWAY CO. MENU

A daily newspaper article states that the Christmas fare on Canadian National Railways trains, in diners, cafe and buffet cars, will include special treats for men on furlough and others who travel during the holidays.

Twelve thousand meals are expected to be served. There is no shortage of turkeys and the cranberry crop has been good. Beef will be available, though the choice of cuts will be limited. The Christmas plum pudding has been made from a wartime recipe, minus some of the familiar ingredients. Rum will replace brandy, and porter has been added to balance the taste and color. Two and a quarter tons have been prepared—could have been one ton more if it hadn't been for the possibility of a half-pound butter ration. There will be no raisins, nuts, figs or dates. Mince pie will be served, but it will not be plentiful.

The holiday menu will be available on dining cars from December 23 to January the twelfth. We understand that at least three Scotch couples intend to take a holiday trip over that line, figuring it will be cheaper to get a drink or two, or something flavored with the necessary, plus sufficient sugar, butter, tea, milk, bread, etc.

BRIDGE RULES REVISED

On the back of a blotter given us recently were a number of Revised Rules for Bridge. Here are some of them:

If your hand is rotten, mention it. It will guide your partner in his bid and play.

Never hurry. Try several cards on trick until you are sure which one you prefer.

Occasionally ask what is trump. It will show you are interested in the game.

Walk around the table when you are dummy and look at the other hands. Tell them what cards are good and how many tricks they can take if they play right.

Talk about other subjects during the game. It makes for good fellowship.

Eat chocolate caramels or other adhesive candy while playing. It keeps the cards from skidding.

If you concentrate on these you will become highly popular. — Glasgow Herald.

"THE PRIMROSE PATH"

A Persian kitty, perfumed and fair,
Strayed to the kitchen door for air,
When a Tom cat, lean and lithe and strong,
And dirty and yellow, came along.

He sniffed at the perfumed Persian cat.

As he strutted about with much eclat;
And thinking a bit of time to pass;
He whispered: "Kiddo, you're sure some class."

"That's fitting and proper," was her reply.

As she arched a whisker over her eye,
"I'm ribbeted; I sleep on a pillow of milk."

And daily they feed me on certified
milk.

Yet we're never contented with what we've got,

I try to be happy, but happy I'm not.
And I should be joyful, I should indeed;

For I certainly am highly pedigreed."

"Cheer up," said the Tom cat, with a smile,

"And trust your new-found friend a while,

You need to escape from your backyard fence,

My dear, what you need is experience."

New joys of living he then unfurled,
As he told her tales of the outside world,

Suggesting at last with a luring taught,

A trip for two down Primrose Path.

The morning after the night before,
The cat came back at the hour of four.
The look in her innocent eyes had want

But the smile on her face was the smile of content.

And in after days, when the children came.

To the Persian kitty of pedigreed
fame,

They weren't Persian — they were black and tan.

And one bid 'em their ad'wan travelling man.

"WRECK OF THE JACK POT"

(By David W. King)
On one dark night on New Denver,
She snow and rain and blow—
De boys she say: "Let's play some draw."

"All right," I say, "she go!"

Now I was play dat game before,
An' know, you bet your neck,
All 'bout de raise before de draw—
But dat was down Quibbie.

Wat man was n'ice dress, Unat Stat,
(I find it out since den)

She work at "short card" for de biz—
I don't know what dat ben.

Der bar-keep man she get in too;
An' prospector named Sleek—
By god! if I haf gun dat tam
I make dat feller seek.

Another man from town Sandon,
She lak to play de game—

Was what you say de "sure ting" boy,
But I not care a dam.

I'm what you call rich man dat time,
I own de Merci Dame.

(She's right near town) I guess you know

Dat was a tam good claim.

When we start in I did not haf

So vera much monee;

But after while—by god! my fren—
You ought to hav seen me!

We haf de drink mos' every han',

I'm takin' straight whiskey.

De boy, she's have de lemonad—

Fooh! Dat's too weak for me!

I raise de bet and make de bluff,

(Mos' every tam she go)—

You seen dat gun you tink I'm swift

And odded fellow slow.

Well, 'long 'bout two, t'ree, four de clock

(De mon she's mos' all mine).

Wan feller says: "Oh, curse de luck,

We play jack pot dat tam."

Well, I know Jack Pot ver' well,

(She's sheep boss at Recceau),

But I not care who play de game

So lon's I got de dough.

When den a man play de game—

To pull off de grand coup—

Jus' fifteen minutes from dat tam,

By gosh! I'm in de soup!

Man from Unat Stat she deal,

An' Sleek she cut de card—

If I could see dat feller now,

Sacred! I hit him hard.

I get 'tree king, I say "She's ope,"

Barkeeps frow up de han'—

But Sleek, she's raise me fifty dol'—

Saint Jean I hear de han'.

Do man from Unat Stat, she stay

An' raise Sleek fifty back;

Das' cos' me hundred but I'm gam,

Dere's where I mak mistak.

We draw de card—Merci! Merci!

Dame Fortune, how you sing!

I got de whole world by de tail—

By god! I got four king!

But den, my monee she's all up;

De boy, she's bet de check—

Hooray! I bet de Merci Dame!

I'm in for brak de neck.

Dere's call all round, I sign de pap.,

My claim 'gainst whole tam place—

De man from Unat Stat, she smile—

Mon Dieu! She's got four ace!

Dat morning vera earl, I guess,

'Bout haf-pas' two, t'ree, four,

Dere was a fight in New Denver—

Ladies' Home Journal, one year

I not live dare no more.

But now I got another claim.

You see, she's right up de rite;

I call dat claim Jack Pot for why?

Dat claim she is not square.

Come all you man what hunt for stake

Wid beig pack on de neck,

Don't try wid man from Unat Stat

For buck de cold, cold deck.

On some dark night in New Denver,

She snow and rain and blow;

De boys she say "Let's play some

draw."

You say, "Good night, I go!"

One of the Oliver Transfer trucks landed in a ditch near Clareholm on Thursday night, forced there by a roadhog and glaring lights. Roach Oliver and his campanion, Biegan, were returning from Calgary with a heavy load when the accident happened. Both men were injured. Oliver with several fractured ribs and other injuries, as well as considerable loss of blood, while Biegan suffered a fractured ankle and many scars and bruises. They were removed to the Clareholm hospital, and were sufficiently recovered to be able to return to Blairmore on Sunday night with William Oliver. It will be some weeks before either can return to work. The truck was not much damaged, and is still in operation.

OPENING OF ALASKA HIGHWAY

Hon. Ian A. Mackenzie, minister of pensions and national health, is shown as he made his address during the official opening of the new highway to Alaska. ## EFFECTIVE NOW

BUTTER

IS RATIONED BY COUPON

The ration is one-half pound of butter per person, per week.

On and after December 21st, it is unlawful to sell or buy butter at retail without the surrender of the proper coupons.

Brown coupons, Nos. 1 to 11, "Spare 'C,'" from Ration Book Number 1 now in the hands of the public, are to be used for this purpose.

Each Brown coupon, Nos. 1 to 11, "Spare 'C'" entitles the holder to buy one week's supply. Only Brown coupons, Nos. 1 to 11 "Spare 'C'" can be used for the purchase of butter.

Each coupon becomes good on a definite date and expires on a definite date . . . and can be used only within its prescribed period, as given below.

The system for butter is different from that applying to Sugar, Coffee and Tea, where coupons have no specified expiry date.

Dates When Butter Coupons Become Usable—and Expire

Coupon Number	Good for Purchase beginning on	Not Good for Purchase After
1	December 21	January 3
2	December 28	January 3
3 and 4	January 4	January 17
5 and 6	January 18	January 31

MARKET BASKETS FROM FOOD STORES INDICATE FAMILIES' NUTRITION STANDING

Standing at the cash desk in a large food store and watching the women shoppers as they pass by with their filled market baskets can be an illuminating experience. The first step to good health through good nutrition lies in the choice of those foods that meet the family's essential needs. Watching the contents of these market baskets, it is easy to pick out the families who are getting the foods they need and those who belong to the all too large group of Canadians whose diets are deficient in one or more important respects.

This winter when the government is sponsoring a nutrition campaign, watch for a moment as the women pass with their purchases.

Here comes a woman—she looks pale, tired and listless. What does her market basket contain? There's jam, white bread, refined cereal, pickles and sweet biscuits. There's nothing wrong with any of these foods individually, but one could hazard a guess that this woman's family does not get enough of the foods like fruits, vegetables, milk, and whole grain cereals that are rich in minerals and vitamins and so necessary to maintain and protect health.

Look at this merry little woman stepping up so briskly to the cash desk with her basket overflowing; she looks as if she found shopping fun. What has she bought today? Eggs are needed tomatoes, cabbage, carrots and apples; cheese and milk; a big package of rolled oats and two loaves of Canada approved bread. That is good health in the making; and notice that the amount run up on the cash register for her purchases is less than the previous woman paid!

Using Canada's Official Food Rules, issued by Nutrition Services at Ottawa, as a yardstick in planning menus and market lists will ensure that all the necessary foods will be included.

The Prime Minister of Canada in a speech made recently in connection with the forthcoming Nutrition Campaign said: "proper attention to the selection and preparation of the family diet can be made a real contribution to our national war effort."

Butter Production

Output In 1941 Was The Largest Ever Recorded

Canadian production of creamery butter during 1941 was the largest ever recorded by the industry—285,648,196 pounds compared with 264,728,689 in 1940—the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported.

The total value also set a high record of $93,199,557, a gain of $28,200,576 from 1940. The average price per pound for the year was 32.6 cents, compared with 24.5 in 1940.

Factory cheese production in 1941 totalled 151,865,538 pounds, an increase of 6,527,000 pounds from 1940, while the value of cheese manufactured during the year was $24,737,037, an increase of $4,325,832 over 1940. The average price per pound was 16.3 against 13.7.

Learn How To Repair And Take Care Of Machines

Trained to instruct farmers in Ontario how to repair, adjust and care for farm machinery, 100 young mechanically-minded farmers completed a special course at the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph.

The course was directed by the director of the Ontario Agricultural representatives branch and arranged in view of the heavy curtailment in manufacture of farm implements ordered as a war necessity because of shortage of metals.

The young instructors will conduct short courses throughout the province and 240 applications for these courses have been received by the department.

War-Time Economy

Canada's Position Ably Reviewed By President Of Bank Of Montreal

The national economy in war-time, with its remarkable industrial expansion—its results in increased taxation and price, wage and other controls and the impressive record of public co-operation, particularly in meeting financial requirements—was reviewed at the 125th annual meeting of the Bank of Montreal, by its president, Hon. H. D. Drimond, who said the government's effort to combat the effects of inflation, witnessed in the aftermath of the last war, merited the support of every thinking Canadian, but he reiterated his plea of a year ago that government controls and regulations be removed with all possible speed after the war, so private enterprise may have the opportunity to convert war factories to the production of peace-time goods.

Referring to Canada's expansion in the production of weapons of war "which our manufacturers had never contemplated undertaking but which they are now producing, staggering large in quantity and of quality equal to any," Mr. Drimond declared that, in a novel, Canada had risen to a bound to the ranks of a major industrial nation. But he made it plain that the first purpose of industry was service rather than profit.

While this unparalleled expansion in manufacturing had taken place, with the present income and excess profits taxes no company today can retain large profits. Industry is working, not for profit but for furtherance of our war effort and merits our unstinted praise.

"Nevertheless, it is vital to the future welfare of the country that industry should be allowed to retain sufficient reserves to enable it to meet the strain of re-converting plants to the production of peace-time goods at the end of the war."

The record of business in Canada in these days practically amounted to the history of the government's efforts in the war, he said.

The president was asked if the record of the Ontario Agricultural representatives branch and arranged in view of the heavy curtailment in manufacture of farm implements ordered as a war necessity because of shortage of metals.

Golden text: Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good. Romans 12:21.

Lessons: Acts 6:15; Romans 12:1-3, 9-21.

Devotional Reading: Philippians 3:7-14.

Explanations and Comments

A Call to Consecration for Service, Romans 12:1, 2. We naturally divide the Book of Romans into two main parts and say that the first is doctrinal and the second part practical; but the very first sentence of the twelfth chapter, where we make the division, shows that the latter begins a close relation to the former.

"I beseech you therefore," writes Paul. The force of the word therefore is given in Dr. Jowett's words: "When we have seen the first part of the letter of Romans, begin to be horrified, perceptive, practical, it is because he has already prepared the rich bed in which the seed of the gospel may be sown. Every precept in the twelfth chapter sends its roots right down through all the previous chapters, through the rich, fat soil of consecration and justification and the mysterious energies of redeeming grace."

By the mercies of God (because of God's mercies to them) the motive for the practical part of the letter is given in the first sentence of the twelfth chapter, where you are given the secret of the power of God. Do not follow the fashion and customs of the world, especially around you, but let your service to God be changed by the Holy Spirit that you look for and recognize God's will, and love to do it."

The precept given by the One Who Commands makes the meaning of these two verses clear: "God's redeeming love should be answered by the true sacrifice and the offering of self, with a life of purity and self-denial and work for God. Do not follow the fashion and customs of the world, especially around you, but let your service to God be changed by the Holy Spirit that you look for and recognize God's will, and love to do it."

In short, "in view of all that God has done for us we should henceforth live for him."

Health LEAGUE of CANADA presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

FRESH AIR MEANS BETTER HEALTH

"Air can be a natural tonic—or a headache. But we don't have to be fresh-air fans. We can't afford to expose ourselves to cold winds at the mere sight of a window," says a pamphlet titled "There's Health in the Air," issued this month by the Industrial Division, Health League of Canada, for distribution to workers in factories and wartime plants. An effective poster which can be used on plant notice boards goes with it.

"The air you breathe," says the pamphlet, "may be a carrier of infection. (Cold germs can travel ten feet through the air from an infected nose and throat.) Irritating grasses from improperly burned fuel may be carried in the air. It also acts as a carrier of dusts and pollens which cause hay fever, asthma and other conditions."

"Most important," it goes on to say, "is good ventilation in the home. Poor ventilation harms health and comfort by:

- (1) Lack of motion in the air.
- (2) Inadequate or excess humidity.
- (3) Improper temperature.
- (4) Irritating gases.

The pamphlet declares that good ventilation depends on proper control of heat, moisture and window ventilation. A daytime temperature of 68 to 70 degrees is recommended. This can be lower at night. A humidifier in the home is an aid to health and comfort. These blow moisture into the air—help clean and circulate it.

The furnace should be checked by a qualified expert in order that all cracks and leaks may be sealed, as well as the furnace back and smoke pipe. This will make the air cleaner to breathe in the house. Contaminated air, it is pointed out, lower resistance to colds, which is the single factor contributing most to absenteeism. Lost time from work, it is emphasized, is lost wages. It costs less to prevent than to cure.

HALFWAY HOUSE

— BY —
MICHAEL TRENT

CHAPTER XI.

A high wind whistled around Halfway House that night. There was no moon; black clouds had up against the window. Anne didn't have dinner with the guests; she felt unbearably unhappy, and she was afraid others would notice it. Her meeting in town had added to her trouble, and it was hard to hide pain. Especially hard to hide it from Rhea Marshall.

Anne dressed for the evening, and by the dimness it was over. She had a sit to sit and a cup of coffee in the kitchen, then went to the lounge where the guests were gathered. Everyone was inside because of the东北风. John Blake was being discussed; there were wondering about his sudden departure, and Rhea was saying at the moment that John Blake struck her as rather mysterious.

Anne heard the girl say, "Did any of you notice that she is rather weak at accent when excited?" Anne felt a chill fear, moving on to the lobby. She saw John Blake, sat at the desk, and went over to his accompaniment. A little later Rhea appeared in the doorway, asking if she might come in. Her manner was studiously friendly, but there was a bright hardness in her eyes as she came and stood looking down at Anne.

"I want to discuss my... my husband with you, Miss Lowry," she said softly. "Steve imagines he's in love with you, but he is rather weak where a pretty girl is concerned." Her eyes flicked over Anne, and you could see her voice was a song. Steve would like you... shall we call it, your 'innocent sweetness?' But no matter what he feels for you, he is my husband, and I do not intend to give him up."

She paused, and Anne said dryly, "Go on, Miss Marshall."

"Mrs. Hayes," the girl corrected. "I want to tell you that if you attempt to come to terms with Steve and me I shall reveal what I know about John Blake—or rather, about Erich Kruger. Is that clear, Miss Lowry?"

Anne stood up, though she felt too weak to stand, and she faced the girl hating her as she had never hated anyone before. She was very clear, she said. "But I haven't the intention of coming between you and Steve since I learned that you and his wife, Miss Lowry, are to Rhea's satisfaction Major and Major." "A things are, Miss Marshall, I think you understand you are no longer welcome at Halfway House."

"Don't be afraid of that," Rhea said. "I plan to leave him." Anne turned and went out, and Anne crumpled into the chair and covered her face with her hands. She felt half dead, exhausted, as from a whipping. She was like that when Steve Hayes arrived.

He filled the office doorway, tall and broad-shouldered in uniform. That was a grim look about him. He said, "Anne, we've got to talk. Don't say there's no need for an explanation, for there is, and you're going to have to talk. Your voice was roughened. "Will it be here or someone else? we won't be interrupted?"

"Steve, you owe me no explanation—just tell me what you need. Please—"

She got up and walked across the room to the verandah door. She stepped out into the darkness, and a gust of wind took her breath away. It was cold. She suddenly cold, inside and out. Steve came out after her, closing the door.

He said abruptly, "Anne, I told you I loved you and I meant it. I want to live with you, and I know I'm not sure I ever was really in love at any time before I met you. I married Rhea, yes. I married her four years ago, when I thought she was the most desirable thing in the world.

DID YOU KNOW THAT:

A rock wall of the ice age near Kamloops, British Columbia, perhaps in perfect balance on a precarious base. As illustrated in an Associated Screen "Did You Know That?" movie short, it looks from a distance like one of the terrifying dinosaurs that used to roam the country. Strangest of all, the pinnacle on which the rock balances is made of clay.

I'd known her for three days. He began to pace back and forth before Anne. She watched him silently, trying to harden her heart. The wind whipped at her skirt, tousing her hair.

Steve went on. "Her aunt, Mrs. Land, found out we were sleeping. She phoned Jeff Marshall, Rhea's father, and he had the police pick us up on a warrant of arrest. He gave a bitter laugh. "He'd have made a murder charge, if he'd had to! The police practically got us on the spot, and I was afraid after the ceremony, and they went home to their wives, they held me—to cool off, as they said. Actually, they had instructions to keep me safe, so that Jeff Marshall to cool off."

Steve halted his pacing, looked miserably at Anne. "I was taken to the hotel where Rhea was, and Jeff Marshall was there in the suite with his wife. She was very lovely, and her sort can love. They hammered away at me, then, Rhea did, too. She had married me out of spite, because I'd been with Carter. He'd had her. Her father had brought him along, having made Carter see the error of his romantic ways—Carter being a Marshall employee and known to be a good man, a good master. So with Carter back in line, I was out. Rhea assured me of that."

"As he paused, Anne whispered, "I'm sorry for you. I'm sorry for both of you."

"They both had a check on him," he said. "Told me the marriage would be annulled, if I didn't go to the church with their checks. I agreed in writing to the annulment. Then I walked out, and I didn't see Rhea until she came here to Halfway House."

"And there was no annulment, Steve?"

"No. Rhea quarreled with Carter almost at once, and I guess she liked him better. She wanted me to have him in the background—a husband that always would be handy yet wouldn't make any claims on her."

"Now she is making her claims on you, darling?"

"She was a check at me," he said. "Told me the marriage would be annulled, if I didn't go to the church with their checks. I agreed in writing to the annulment. Then I walked out, and I didn't see Rhea until she came here to Halfway House."

"No. Rhea quarreled with Carter almost at once, and I guess she liked him better. She wanted me to have him in the background—a husband that always would be handy yet wouldn't make any claims on her."

"Now she is making her claims on you, darling?"

"She was a check at me," he said. "Told me the marriage would be annulled, if I didn't go to the church with their checks. I agreed in writing to the annulment. Then I walked out, and I didn't see Rhea until she came here to Halfway House."

"And there was no annulment, Steve?"

Local stores experienced an exceptionally brisk Christmas trade.

The first calendar for 1943 received by us this year was from the Imperial Bank of Canada, Michel-Natal-Fernie.

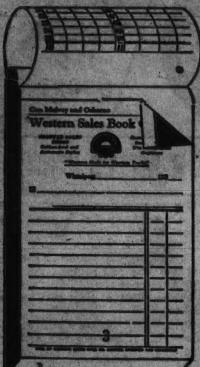

"I hear that Farmer Jones' hired man has left him."

"Yes, he said he couldn't stand the cold."

"Why, it's no colder on the farm this year than usual."

"No, but he heard over the radio that farm labor was to be frozen this year."

WINE

"More and more, we like to enjoy wine in the afternoon. Our choice is Bright's Concord Red Port Wine or Catawba White Sherry Wine — always delicious, never too costly." Bright's wines are Canada's favourites — in the afternoon, or any time! Their rich, mellow flavour comes from the choicest varieties of Canadian grapes — available only to Bright's. Keep Bright's Concord and Catawba wines on hand to grace those friendly social gatherings and to top off successful dinners, too!

Blairmore stores and citizens are anxiously awaiting ice and snow.

With this better ration there isn't so much danger of slipping on the sidewalk.

Silvio Gris, manager of Natal Trading Co.'s store, was a visitor to Blairmore and Blairmore on Monday.

Blairmore Legion, B.E.S.L., will hold their annual smoker, etc., on the night of Thursday, January 7th.

At Central United church there will be a service on Christmas morning at 11 o'clock. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend.

The Blairmore Public Library will not open on Saturday next (Boxing Day) or on Saturday, January 2nd. It will be open on Wednesdays as usual.

The restaurant patron will have to make one pat of butter go all the way round his meal under the butter rationing regulations. And butter is not to be served to customers unless asked for.

As we go to press we learn that Santa Claus, with his reindeer, is being helped up somewhere between Macleod and Lethbridge for want of snow. In any case, he will reach The Pass to-night or tomorrow if he has to resort to airplane or train travel.

The body of Byron D. Chandler, 62, millionaire spendthrift well known on Broadway early in the century, was found floating in Lake Worth near Palm Beach on Sunday last with a bullet wound in his chest. Chandler had been brooding over his conviction of sending a lewd letter through the mails, and is believed to have shot himself.

The Editor will be glad to receive items for this section, concerning visitors entertained, parties leaving for holidays or short trips, bridge parties, teas, showers, presentations, anniversaries, etc. Please items in 10 or hand them in at The Enterprise office not later than Thursday evenings.

Buildings for wreathes are being offered for sale at Baynes Lake, B.C.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. George Nichols, of Beaver Mines, on December 16th.

Thirty years ago, Dr. J. H. King, of Cranbrook, had a visit from his son, Hon. Senator King, to spend Christmas.

Robert Livett, of Calgary, president of District 18 of the U. M. W. of A., was in the Crows' Nest Pass over the week end.

Threshing in the Beaver Mines district is almost completed. What remains to be done will likely lay over till next spring.

A woman purchasing Victory Bonds told the clerk: "I've been saving this money to divorce my husband, but I can stand him better than I can Hitler."

Pupils of Cranbrook central school raised $600.25 in their war savings campaign last term, exceeding their fourteen weeks' objective of $495 by $105.25.

Last week the city council of Cranbrook expressed worry over the removal of snow from streets and sidewalks. This district had no snow to worry about.

Little Esther Davis, of Cranbrook, whose nose was bitten off by a dog recently, is to receive a new one. Money for same was raised by the Junior Red Cross.

"My word, this tastes good," said the old lady, drinking a glass of beer for the first time. "It's just like the medicine my husband has been taking for the last forty years."

Charles Green, former resident of Blairmore, is leaving Pincher Creek to take up residence at the Pacific coast. Before leaving Pincher Creek, he was guest of the Oddfellows and recipient of an appropriate gift.

The deer season in the Cranbrook district, which closed on December 15th, was reported as one of the best the district has ever experienced. Too bad the animals couldn't speak for themselves.

Water for hens is a vital necessity. A hen drinks about twice as much water per unit of body weight and will die more quickly from want of water than any other farm animal. A hen producing 130 to 150 eggs per year will consume nearly 20 gallons of water.

A local lady asked by the magistrate why she threw the hot flat-iron at her husband, replied: "Well, your honor, my motto is 'Strike while the iron is hot!'" Another woman's husband declared that he was held up on his way home last night, to which she replied, "Well, that's the only way you could get there."

A Swedish farmer, who wanted to make his permanent home in this country, appeared for his naturalization papers. "Are you satisfied with the general conditions of this country?" asked the official. "Yah, sure," he replied. "And does this government of ours suit you?" "Well, yah, mostly, only I like see more rain."

The following item appeared in the Kootenay Mail, Revelstoke, forty-five years ago: "The O.P.R. has issued a circular to its employees, making it necessary for trainees and eng'neers to take sufficient rest at divisional points. They must not start out from the divisional point to which they belong unless they are perfectly fresh and fit to make the round trip without rest, if necessary; but in no case must they leave a divisional point unless prepared for at least twelve hours continuous service. This step has been taken in view of recent accidents."

PLAIN WATER TELLS THE Plain Truth ABOUT WHISKY

Water, plain or sparkling, has nothing in common with concoctions. It never tastes any whisky mixed with it. And Seagram's "83" is one whisky that needs no flavoring.
